Director Lane's Message: Caution for Faith-Based Venues

Holy Week began with an unspeakable tragedy as chaos followed bomb blasts killing 44 and injuring 100 innocent worshippers in two Egyptian cities on Palm Sunday. The Islamic State claimed responsibility. "As we pray for these victims in Egypt, we urge our Shelby County faith-based organizations to be on high alert during Holy Week," said Dale Lane, Director Shelby County Office of Preparedness (SCOP). "Communicate with your congregation to be aware of their surroundings at all times and to have a plan of escape if faced with an attack."

Safety tips for Faith-Based Partners:

- Develop an emergency operations plan for your faith-based venue.
- Reach out! Collaborate with law enforcement and emergency management.
- Plan for terrorism and all hazards (weather, outages, fires, earthquakes).
- Know how to shelter-in-place or evacuate at a moment's notice.
- Stay vigilant! Be aware of your surroundings.
- Have emergency notification plans in place.
- Have 2 escape routes out of each room.
- Practice the Run, Hide, Fight Active Shooter maneuver:
 - RUN / ESCAPE: Run! Leave belongings behind.
 - HIDE: If you cannot run, hide! Close, barricade the door. Silence phones.
 - FIGHT: Fight as a last resort. Incapacitate the shooter. Be aggressive!
 - Call 911 when safe to do so.
 - When law enforcement arrives: Be calm, follow instructions, raise hands with fingers spread apart. Provide information (location and description of the shooter, type of weapons, and location of victims).

SCOP offers free "Active Shooter Awareness" presentations. To schedule a class, call 901.222.6706, email Shelby Logan at Shelby.Logan@shelbycountyttn.gov or request a speaker at www.staysafeshelby.us.

Remember... If you see say something! Report suspicious behavior immediately! Call local law enforcement or submit a tip on-line to the FBI at <https://tips.fbi.gov/>

Partner Spotlight: Tennessee Office of Homeland Security

The Shelby County Office of Preparedness (SCOP) shares 1075 Mullins Station, on the Shelby County Government East campus, with several other partner agencies working hand-in-hand to keep our region safe. One such partner is Kevin Bebout, Tennessee Office of Homeland Security (TOHS) Special Agent. In charge of operations for District 11, the West Tennessee Office of Homeland Security, Agent Bebout's responsibilities include facilitating Tennessee's resources to local public safety partners. The TOHS directs actions to prevent terrorism in the state of Tennessee. The office serves as a link to federal, state and local agencies, as well as the private sector regarding the security of citizens. The TOSH promotes four missions: awareness (to identify terrorist's threats in Tennessee), prevention (to detect and deter terrorism), protection (to safeguard citizens from terrorism), and respond (to assist in coordinating the response to terrorism). Agency Bebout and the TOSH pride itself on "organization excellent" by putting the safety of citizens first.

Bebout, a strong advocate for public safety, advises Tennesseans to report any suspicious behavior to authorities.... "If you see something, say something." Suspicious activity can be reported on the TOSH website at http://www.tn.gov/safety/topic/report_susp_act.

Shelby Cares: Live at 9

Dale Lane, Director Shelby County Office of Preparedness, was a special guest on WREG's "Live at 9" morning program on April 4, 2017. Director Lane spoke on behalf of the 501(c)(3) mission, Shelby Cares, the county's faith-based sheltering initiative. During the interview with hosts Marybeth Conley and Alex Coleman, Director Lane explained the need for having emergency shelters quickly available to house disaster victims. Lane gave examples of local major flooding in 2010 and 2011 when Shelby Cares, along with the American Red Cross, welcomed hundreds of flood victims into community centers, schools, and churches converted into Shelby Cares shelters. When speaking of the generosity of faith-based organizations and individuals who stepped up to house citizens, Director Lane said, "In times of crisis, people just want to help!"

Shelby Cares is now actively recruiting for faith-based organizations to join the team. If you have a large public building that might be suitable as a shelter or want to donate or volunteer to help future sheltering efforts, please contact Terry Donald, Shelby Cares Coordinator, at 901.222.6700 or email terry.donald@shelbycountytg.gov.

Outreach: International Paper

Safety and business continuity are engrained in the culture of International Paper (IP). They created and practice emergency plans for earthquake and tornado, have designated alternative sites in case their campus is damaged, and test an Emergency Notification System regularly.

In addition to workplace safety, IP is working to ensure their employees are prepared at home. “Disasters Happen. Are you Ready?” was the theme of the IP Global Financial Services safety event on March 22. IP’s Tower IV Finance Safety Team, headed by Kristi Britt and organizer, Sally Balzar, gathered 180 employees to learn about personal preparedness. The Safety Team performed a humorous skit of a tornado event – with some employees prepared and some not. Following the skit, the Shelby County Office of Preparedness (SCOP) presented safety information on flooding, severe temperatures, thunderstorms, and earthquakes. The IP employees were game to dive under tables during an impromptu earthquake drill. SCOP also showed IP employees how to create a disaster kit and the personal preparedness equipment needed to have on hand. All who attended received an orange IP Preparedness Readiness Emergency Pack that included bottled water, a first-aid kit, an emergency blanket, fruit snack, and emergency contact cards and a SCOP bag with a HELP / OK sign, preparedness literature, and a disaster kit shopping list.

FEMA Coloring Book

FEMA invites you and your children to explore the world of preparedness with the “Disaster Preparedness Coloring Book.” Children learn about fire, earthquakes, floods, tornados and other disasters and how to stay safe while coloring! Sit down with your children and talk with them about each safety message and how to take actions to survive. To print off your FEMA coloring book, visit <https://www.fema.gov/media-library/assets/documents/2983>.

Monitor Earthquakes

Earthquakes can occur anytime, any location. Do you know when and where the latest earthquakes occurred? To monitor the latest earthquake activity in the Mid-South and around the world or to receive earthquake notifications, please visit the United States Geological Survey (USGS) earthquake notification service at <https://earthquake.usgs.gov/ens/> or download the free American Red Cross mobile Earthquake App from www.redcross.org.

Shelter Training

Reserves and staff from the Shelby County Office of Preparedness and the Memphis Office of Emergency Management attended Disaster Shelter Fundamentals training on April 1st at the American Red Cross Mid-South Chapter. Students learned the basics of housing and feeding disaster victims in both an evacuation and general population shelter. Ken Brown, Instructor, reviewed the steps to identify a dwelling as a potential shelter, the inspection process, and setting up the shelter. Students learned about the food, hygiene and medication requirements as well as the need for security. Instructor Brown reviewed the specific responsibilities for a shelter volunteer. Following the lecture, the students learned how to unpack and assemble two different types of cots that may be used in a shelter.

SKYWARN

Citizens are encouraged to learn about inclement weather by becoming a volunteer SKYWARN weather spotter. Classes are free and the training is conducted by the National Weather Service (NWS) or local meteorologists, and it is available on line.

Shelby County Office of Preparedness Reserves attended the March 23 SKYWARN training presented by Gary Woodall, NWS Warning Meteorologist, and Shelby County ARRES. The class, “Working Together to Save Lives,” offered spotters helpful information about how to best report severe thunderstorms, hail, tornadoes, and flash flooding. Information provided by spotters can be helpful to the National Weather service because radar cannot show what is on the ground. Stressing the importance of spotter safety, it is suggested that spotters report from a fixed location and stay east or southeast of the storm area and a few miles away to observe and report.

To find a SKYWARN class near you, visit www.weather.gov. Or visit Comet MetEd for online training at https://www.meted.ucar.edu/training_course.php?id=23.

“Build a Kit” with Ready Kids!

Gayle and her friends from FEMA’s Ready Kids invite you to learn how to create a “go kit” by playing the Build a Kit game at <https://www.ready.gov/kids/games/data/bak-english/index.html>.

The game includes 5 levels of asking you to choose which items to put into your go kit. Level 1: choose clothing items. Level 2: choose food and beverage items. Level 3: choose items from the family room. Level 4: choose toiletry items. Level 5: shop for other items. Once you have passed Level 5 and chosen all the items you need to build a great go kit, you can print your disaster kit check list. Play the Build a Kit game with your family today!

Swim Safe!

Learn to keep everyone safe in and around the water this summer with the new American Red Cross app, “Swim.” The app contains information about drowning prevention and emergency response, as well as educational games and videos. It also has a swim lesson progress tracker. Visit www.redcross.org or text swim to 90999.
